

THE USE OF WORDS WITH ENGLISH ORIGIN IN UZBEK WEBSITES

Qodirova Dilnoza

second year graduate student of comparative linguistics and theory of translation, Faculty of Foreign Philology, National University of Uzbekistan,

E-mail: abudil.abuzar95@bk.ru

Sadullayeva Nilufar Azimovna

Scientific supervisor, Ph.D., associate professor

ABSTRACT

The current paper investigates the occurrences of English words on various Uzbek websites. To achieve this, this article has analyzed educational websites, news websites, and the websites of authoritative bodies. The paper gives some preliminary information about the websites investigated and provides a list of the most commonly used English words on these websites.

Key words: websites, internet, link, educational, news, English words

The internet is already overrun with different sorts of websites in the modern digital age, and many new ones are appearing every day. On the Internet, there are reportedly more than 1.25 billion websites. There are just too many of these websites, which are dispersed over the Internet like stars throughout the cosmos. Today, even the tiniest businesses have their own website. In the past, websites were mainly text-based and used by government agencies or celebrities to disseminate information. Although there are a lot of these websites, they may be divided into 10 separate categories without any difficulty. Websites for non-profit organizations, e-commerce, education, entertainment, portfolios, and social media (Instagram, Facebook, Twitter and Reddit).

The following are the most popular Uzbek websites.

Kun.uz is one of the most active online publications in Uzbekistan. The website aims to provide prompt, accurate, and objective information about the most important events in Uzbekistan and the world. Nuz.uz gives data about news and events in the country and in the world, along with articles on politics, incidents, economics, sports, and more. Uzbekistan Daily is your source for news, business, financial, and investing news from Uzbekistan and Central Asia. Our goal is to become the leading source of business news in Uzbekistan and Central Asia. The National News Agency of Uzbekistan covers official news, breaking news, analytical and critical materials, legal documents, photo, and video reports Tashkent Times is an English-language online newspaper that brings all the latest Uzbekistan news. Uzbekistan Newline is the only daily news digests in the English and Russian languages delivered to businesses and organizations across the world at informing key strategic decisions and corporate risk fencing, enabling them to stay up-to-date with the latest developments on the ground. New Uzbekistan is a reliable and up-to-date news project in Uzbekistan and around the world. The news agency ‘Podrobno.uz’ today is one of the leading media outlets not only in Uzbekistan, but also in Central Asia. We prepare news from Uzbekistan and Central Asia. Samarkandnews.uz is the official website of the newspaper of the Samarkand city council and city administration of people’s deputies. Qalampir is an online publication that provides fast, detailed, and reliable information on the most important events in Uzbekistan and the world. Daryo is an online publication designed to provide Uzbek readers with the latest news from around the world and in Uzbekistan. The BBC Uzbekistan is recognized by audiences in the UK and around the world as a provider of news that users can trust

As Noam Chomsky said that the internet could be a very positive step towards education, organisation and participation in a meaningful society (Noam Chomsky, 2017), these websites should use correct and familiar words in their pages. In the following the mostly occurring English words are compiled in an alphabetical order.

address (noun): a string of letters/numbers that identifies the location of a website/webpage (for example <https://www.example.com/page>) or the destination for email messages (for example user@example.com).

admin (abbreviation): administrator avatar (noun): an icon or symbol representing a particular person in an internet forum or video game etc.

blog (noun): a (relatively small) regularly updated website or webpage, often operated by an individual and written in a conversational style. A blog is composed of posts.

e-commerce (noun): commercial transactions done electronically on the internet.

email 1 (noun, uncountable): short for electronic mail, a system through which messages can be sent worldwide to and from anyone with an email address.

FAQ (abbreviation): Frequently Asked Questions format, file format (noun): the way data is saved within a file, for example:

image: gif, jpg, png

audio: mp3

video: mp4

text: html, htm, php, asp forward (verb): send an email that you have received on to another person.

hyperlink (noun): highlighted word, words or image that you can click on to go to another section or to another page on the internet.

internet, Internet (noun): a global electronic network providing a variety of information, education, entertainment, shopping and other facilities accessible to anyone with a computer and mobile phone.

information technology (noun): the study and use of systems (especially computers and telecommunications) for the storage, retrieval and sending of data/information.

JPG, JPEG (noun): 1. one of several different formats for digital image files, typically used for photographs 2. a file in JPG format, for example image.jpg.

link (noun): hyperlink

(<https://www.englishclub.com/vocabulary/internet.php#hyperlink>).

log in/log on (verb): enter a username and password to gain access to a website, computer, database etc; sign in.

offline (adjective): the state of being down or disconnected (from the internet).

online (adjective): the state of being up or connected (to the internet).

platform, online platform, digital platform (noun): a fairly flexible term that usually means a website or mobile app that facilitates the exchange of information, goods or services between users or between users and the platform. Examples may include Twitter, Amazon and Booking.com.

podcast (noun): a digital audio recording on the internet, typically a talk or interview, that can be streamed or downloaded to a computer or mobile device.

program (noun): a series of coded software instructions to control the operation of a computer, website etc; application, app.

social media (noun): websites and platforms on the world wide web that let users create and share content and communicate with other members.

user ID, userID (noun): a unique identifier or username used for logging on to a website.

username (noun): userID; a special name used by a user to login to a website, or to post messages or use an email service etc.

virus, computer virus (noun): a piece of harmful code that can copy and spread itself in computers, internet servers, websites etc, potentially corrupting the system or destroying data.

website (noun): one or more webpages under a single domain name and typically based around the same topic and managed by a single organization or person.

Wi-Fi, wifi (noun): a system that lets computers, smartphones and other devices connect wirelessly to each other over a limited area or connect to the internet.

REFERENCES:

1. Chomsky, N. (2017). Who Rules the World? (American Empire Project)
2. Cailliau, R. (2007). A Little History of the World Wide Web.
<http://www.w3.org/History.html>