ABSTRACT

In this article, the role of talent and culture of communication is the most necessary factor for a person in the development of a person's communication style. The main reason why a person is called a product of social relations means that he is always in the circle of people, in the framework of interaction with them. This indicates that one of the most leading and influential activities of a person is communication. It is an important task for teachers and psychologists to identify gifted children in time, to direct their talents to a specific field.

Keywords: Personality, communication, talent, perception, memory, thinking, ability, natural, special abilities.

ENTER

In the communication of gifted children, the culture of communication is often realized, that is, mutual respect, trust, and understanding. But sometimes communication can be broken. Because sometimes they can hurt each other without understanding, they can say hurtful things, and as a result, they can cause conflicts. If the culture of communication is well formed in people, it will be easy for them to understand each other. The communication culture of gifted children can be formed from a young age in the family, under the influence of the social environment, as a result of self-awareness and education.

TADQIQOT METODOLOGIYASI (RESEARCH METHODOLOGY)

In order to determine the socio-psychological characteristics of the influence of talent on the communication style of a person in psychology, the results of the methods "Personality of communication" (V. Karimova), "Determining communication skills" (M. Maksudova) were analyzed.

TAHLIL VA NATIJALAR (ANALYSIS AND RESULTS)

Communication is one of the primary types of activity manifested in the process of individual development of a person, and it originates from one of the strong needs of a person - to be a person, to speak like people, to understand them, to love, to coordinate mutual relations. That is why the role of each person in society, the success of his work, and his reputation are directly related to his ability to communicate. Communication is an important condition of human life and activity. It is through communication that people have the opportunity to master their nature and work together to satisfy their individual needs. In the process of communication, certain images and models of human behavior are formed, and later they enter into a person. A person's thinking, the world, and the ability to analyze and evaluate his image are formed in the process of communication.

Personal experience, social competence and skills throughout a person's life social that is formed in the process of growth, is directly formed purposeful formation of these processes in the science of psychology, different from knowledge or communicative literacy, is one of the current issues.

- The manners of behavior of perfect people, the way of thinking, the readability of getting into a relationship, the potential to get out of a situation, is imitated by other people and lives according to it in life experience.

- The main goal of the psychology of communication is, first of all, the formation of speech culture in young people. Also, during the training process, it is necessary to inculcate communication culture and manners in the future specialists, to improve mutual relations in groups and teams by forming communication.

- A gifted child is a person who has more mental abilities than his peers, mentally, spiritually, physically, and has priority characteristics compared to other children. Gifted children have their own characteristics, we will list them one by one below:

- He starts speaking early from a young age, his vocabulary is formed early;
- quickly remembers information and has the ability to sort them;
- has the technique of using existing knowledge;
- looks at the environment with curiosity;
- learns topics easily; imagination is strong, etc

- There are a number of methods for mentally correct communication skills in gifted children, in particular:

- formation of self-confidence in the child;
- ensuring that the child starts communicating with people;
- forming a view of the environment in relation to analysis;
- to give the child an understanding of the positive and negative points in the relationship, etc.

-- “Communicativeness of the person” (V. Karimova) “Determining communicativeness” “(M. Maksudova)” methods.

- Through these methods, we will consider a person's ability to communicate or not at all. We can see the testers' receptiveness to communication through these 3 scales. These scales determine a person's sociability. The number of our testers is 30 people.

ANALYSIS OF RESULTS

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

An educated and talented child determines not only his own future, but also the future of the people and the nation. Talented young people are an important factor that ensures the social and economic development of the Republic of Uzbekistan and its rightful place in the world community. We can say that the role of talent in the development of a person's communication style is considered an important aspect, and parents, teachers and psychologists are very important in their identification and correct psychocorrection.

Therefore, studying the psychology of gifted children, directing them to the field suitable for their talents, and educating their personal characteristics is a very responsible task for psychologists and pedagogues today. We should pay attention to talented children and educate talented young people in educational institutions. Because they are a role model for their peers and a representative of young people who can follow their example.
